tion at New Orleans, I.a. This Exposition was conceived by the National Cotton Planters' Association, and will commemorate the first shipment of cotton from the United States to Europe—the advent of cotton as a factor into the commerce of the world. It is therefore eminently proper that Memphis—the largest inland cotton center of the globe, and Shelby county, the SECOND LARGEST COTTON COUNTY of the world, should be represented at this World's Fair to be held in her sister city of the South. To the inventive genius of Eli Whitney and Watt and Arkwright are the cotton States of this Union more in-debted than to all other men for the rotund expansion attained by this, at i present, the most important factor in the agricultural and industrial devel-opment of the new South. For more than eighty years cotton has peen an important item in our exports.

Sixty years ago the average annual exportation was more than $25,000,000. From 1835 to 1850, excepting only three years, did the exports of cotton fall below $50,000,000, while in 1850 it rose to $72,000,000, and in 1851 it rapidly rose to the then unprecedented ount of $112,000,000. The largest crop anterior to 1859 amounted to 3,500,000 bales. In 1882 we harvested SEVEN MILLION BALES, navigation hence to the gulf. You enjoy water highways for your commerce, not only to all the ports of the world, but also to those dotting 20,000 miles of inland navigation, and in addition to this the communication afforded by gight links of railway, with 125,000 miles reaching all the large cities and a mejority of the smaller towns of this Union. Possessing all these advantages, Memphis ought to be the foremost city in manufacturing, as she is the foremost city in handling the inland cot-

The manufacture of agricultural implements alone ought to give to Memphis a paintings, embroidery, needlework, etc., with an invoice, placing a reasonable price on the same, and your commissioner for joys. The manufacture of cotton goods should give employment right here to more than 100,000 souls. My object, fellow-citizens, is to incite the citizens of Memphis to higher aims and loftier aspirations in the future than they have attained in the past. The business men of Memphis are progressive in commerce, why not extend it also to manufactures? All civilized and semi-civilized people will be represented at this grandest of all international exhibitions. Before the light of all others pale. Therefore, it behooves you to be there and in force. Our appeal s not to the chivalry of Shelby county ationalities of the Old World, Mexico central America and representatives from all the South American States and the West Indian Islands will be there. These South American and West Indian and Central American and Mexican cousing wish to cultivate friendlier relations and to establish an interchange of products with us. They want the fruit of our doms and our mills. They want our fleur made from the hard wheat of Tennessee. Kentucky and Virginia, which is the only flour that can safely and without damage cross the equator. They offer in exchange for these the hides of their ani mais - cattle, sheep, goats and kids; they offer us their soffess, their splees, their gold and their silver in exchange for these products They whisner into our com-mercial ear—beware of England as a per-manent customer for your surplus wheat ermeating every available foot of her with her railways, and that in less than another decade she will become an exporter instead of an importer of wheat and will produce on her own soil all the tton required by her mills. We have ferred to cotton and to wheat as the rincipal factors in commerce emanating rom these States with a view of directing your minds to the great problem of trans-portation, the development and wanagethe highest intellects of the age. Progressmoves in two directions—the cost and the time required to reach a market—both of which are of prime importance in devel-oping and maintaining trade. Within my memory (and I am not a very old man) three-fourths if not seven-eighths of the that was it in 1882? From a publical of the Bureau of Statistics it appears that while the tonnage of the New York State canals fell from 6,500,000 tons in 1868 to 5,500,000 tens in 1882, the tonnage of the New York Central railroad system rose from 1,800,000 tons to 11,000,000. Of a total movement of wheat to the seaboard in the year of 1882, amounting to 186,000,000 bushels—only 11,500,000 bushels went by the Mississippi route—while 34,500,000 went by lake and canal and 140,000,000 by HALF AND HALF.

Themselves.

Commissioner McWhirter, of the State Bureau of Agriculture, delivered an address at Mozart Hall last night to an audience of Memphis business men upon the importance of making a creditable exhibit of the resources of Shelby county, agricultural, mechanical and artistic, at the World's Fair, to be opened at New Orleans in December next.

The Address.

My mission here to-night in part is to invite the active co-operation of the merotants and manufacturers of the city of Memphis in making a creditable display of specimens illustrating the natural history, the resources and products of the field, garden, orchard and workshops of Shelby county and this city at the World's Industrial and Cotton Centennial Exposition at New Orleans, La. This Exposition and will comment.

Do this and these Southern States will expand in a healthful increase of population, wealth and prosperity.

or twice as much as the largest of the anto-bellum crops. We export annually seventy-five per cent. of our crop in the lint, and it is to this fact that I now wish to direct the attention of the patriotic capitalist, merchant, manufacturer and farmer downths, at least, of the cotton of these southern States ought to be manufactured on the ground of its growth into textile and other fabrics. If you desire positive progress in the agricultural, manufacturing commercial and industrial interests of this section, you should give this subject more the continued in the subject more the continued in the subject more than and greater individual support. A diversity of industries makes nations and republies rich and prosperous must be entered in figures on the second line. Each county will use a sorial number, commencing at No. 2 for its second package, and so on up to and including as many numbers as may be required from the county, and at make and flour, the continued in the second provided the second provided in the saic. FOR SIXTY-THREE YEARS, ending June 30, 1883, was more than 2000,000,000 bushels—more than one-half of which was shipped the eight years next preceding 1883. The money values of these shipments amount to more than $25,000,000,000. I have thus entered into these dry and always tedious statistics for the purpose of reaching the brains of these practical business men that have honored us with their presence to-night. Memphis is admirably located for a great manufacturing city. Coal, iron, cotton and timber abound in this fair and highly-favored section. You are midway between the number of the arm of in summer. As the announcement was directly in the face of rumors which were current upon the streets to the effect that Mr. James Phelan had purchased a half interest in the paper, a representative of the APPEAL called upon the attorneys on either side for the purpose of obtaining as much information as possible upon the subject.

Their statement is to the following effect: Several days ago Col. Looney called upon Mr. Chase, and after some negotiations Mr. Chase, and after some negotiations agreed to purchase all the stock of the Avalanche Company, 160 shares of $100 teach, for $20,000. Mr. Chase agreed to give possession as soon as the money was paid. This was regarded by both as a sale, and Col. Looney and those he represented were given until Thursday morning to pay over the money. On Wednesday evening a tender of the required amount, $20,000, was made to Mr. Chase, who asked to be given until morning to who asked to be given until morning to consummate the sale. tal, small and great, to the development of manufactories. Invite population which will give us wealth, and wealth will give us development. Increase a home demand for your agricultural products, by the importation of skilled labor, and employ that labor in the development of industries. Convert your wheat into flour for South American and other ports. This will bring back to this greatest of water highways, and to the rail ways running parallel therewith, a commerce and a tonnage never dreamed of by our forefathers. And more than this, it will result in a healthful development of the latent wealth of these States, which will impart a vigorous prosperity to all classes. part a vigorous prosperity to all classes This country stands second only among let us from this time develop a constructive philosophy in our political economy which shall open up the 80,000 square miles of coal measures of these fifteen Southern States—(according to Prof. Safford one-third more in area than possessed by all of Europe); an economy which shall tunnel our mountains and bring forth their inexhaustible treasures of iron, cities and a mejority of the smaller towns of this Union. Possessing all these advantages, Memphis ought to be the foremost city in manufacturing, as she is the foremost city in handling the inland cotton of this Union. Pittsburg, less favored in climate, in soil and in commercial advantages—having to transport the ores with which her furnaces are supplied some 600 to 1000 miles, and her and from which she manufactures glass a long distance—Pittsburg, with all of her disadvantages, stand pre-eminent as a manufacturing city.
